LEARN ABOUT DAYLILIES AT TATUM PARK

MIDDLETOWN—On Sunday, April 10, the Monmouth County Park System’s Tatum Park Red Hill Activity Center, located on Red Hill Road in Middletown, will host the spring meeting for the Garden State Daylily Growers. Open to the public, the meeting will feature daylily expert Janice Kennedy. President of the Northern Virginia Daylily Society and a member of the American Hemerocallis Society, Ms. Kennedy will give a presentation at 1:30 p.m. on continuing the legacy of the late award-winning hybridizer Pat Cochenour. A longtime friend and supporter, Ms. Kennedy manages Ms. Cochenour’s introductions and seedlings. During her life, Ms. Cochenour registered 65 daylilies hybrids and was renowned for her creativity. This presentation is free. For information about the Monmouth County Park System, visit www.monmouthcountyparks.com or call 732-842-4000. The TTY/TDD number for persons with hearing impairment is 711.
