Charleston Springs Golf Course,
Millstone, NJ
September 21, 2021

Designed by noted golf course architect Mark Mungeam, Charleston Springs North and South courses offer 36 holes of championship caliber golf. The par 72 North Course is a links style course, with expansive undulating fairways defined by native grasses and wildflowers. The course features extensive bunkering, multiple water hazards, and large immaculately maintained greens. It has a USGA course rating of 73.4 and slope rating of 126.

The par 72 South Course is designed in the classic parkland style, similar to the golden age courses of the teens and twenties. The South Course utilizes existing terrain and natural features to define each hole. In the parkland style, holes are framed with sporadic trees and native grasses. There are four sets of tee markers to challenge golfers of all skill levels. The course measures 6,953 yards from the back tees and carries a USGA course rating of 73.2 with a slope rating of 125.
