All throughout the country, the 4-H Youth Development Program will be celebrated in National 4-H Week 10/5-10/11/08. Nationally, 4-H will be recognized for the outstanding impact it has had on the lives of youth and the communities in which they live.

The positive influence of the Monmouth County 4-H program is daily affirmed by the feedback received from 4-H'ers, leaders, families, alumni, and the staff of Monmouth County schools and community based organizations.

Each 4-H club and community program will uniquely celebrate National 4-H Week. Perhaps you will perform a community service project. Or, as a 4-H Ambassador, schedule meetings with school and community groups in order to promote 4-H volunteerism and member enrollment. You might choose to arrange a display or power point presentation to raise awareness of 4-H opportunities.

As you plan your activities, you may be interested in the fact that this year's 2008 National 4-H Week Theme is “Keeping It Green”. This theme incorporates environmental stewardship, science related issues, and youth development. “Keeping It Green” builds on 4-H's new partnership with Nickelodeon's “The Big Green Help”.

For more information on how to access National 4-H Week media and program suggestions, contact the 4-H office.

The Rutgers Cooperative Extension 4-H Youth Development program uses a learn by doing approach to enable youth to develop the knowledge, attitudes and skills they need to become competent, caring and contributing citizens of the world. THE GARDEN OF JOY

By: Patricia Betty, Leader

Our new Garden of Joy 4-H Club (Asbury Park branch) officially opened for business on Wednesday, June 25, 2008. The first order of business was the election of officers, with Kelsi Salazar being nominated President, and Nicholas Salazar, Treasurer.

The children initially decided to meet twice a month, on Wednesdays, but later took a vote and decided to have club meetings once a month, the third Thursday of the month, from 4:30 to 6:00 pm.

This is primarily a gardening club (see www.thegardenofjoy.org), structured to teach children the importance of planting, the environment, nutrition and career possibilities linked to nature. The club members range in age from 6 yrs to 18 yrs, and so far we have a membership of 8 children. The President, Kelsi Salazar, at the last meeting (Thursday, July 24th) proposed that the children choose 2 days a week to work the gardens. This motion was passed and the two days decided: Monday and Wednesday afternoons. It was also decided that the Garden of Joy 4-H club would link up with the UEZ Farmers' Market on Main Street Asbury Park on Saturdays, beginning August 9th. This Farmers' Market hours are 9:00 am to 12:30 pm. It was also decided that the children would do fundraising over the next two weeks to raise funds for produce and items for this farm stand.

While our 4-H members are working the Garden of Joy gardens two days a week, we need help an additional three days a week in these gardens.

ANIMAL SCIENCE

By: Meg Whitehouse, Leader

The club had a busy July. Thanks to Erin Panek and Sam Martin who served as youth superintendents at the Stars and Stripes Small Animal Show on July 12th. They helped with the secretaries' table, assigned rabbit classes to the judge and helped to write comments. They were an invaluable aid to the smooth running of the show. Then on July 19th, many of us went to Dawn Patrol at Monmouth Park. We toured the jockeys' room, watched the horses get trained at the start gate, and even met the track mascot, a miniature horse named Cocoa Puff.

Animal Science had a terrific time at the Monmouth County Fair, from set up to break down. We worked the popcorn stand, ran the dunking booth, helped in the food booth and served as herdsman in the small animal, herpetology and livestock tents. The club submitted many project entries this year. Congratulations to

4-H MONMOUTH BLASTERS

By: Chris Whitehouse, Club Leader

The Blasters had a successful fair. The club booth was assembled by the members and looked great. The theme was “One World-Our Dream”, and we incorporated the space station and the space shuttle into the design. The members worked hard on the booth and were rewarded with many compliments. Food booth was fun and popcorn sales were brisk. Thanks to members of 14 Carrot Rabbit and Animal Science Clubs CJ Halpin, Jen Clayton, Brittany Rappleyea and Graham Haliskoe who helped us out with the dunk tank. We are looking forward to fall launches with our friends. Congratulations to Jimmy Pezzullo, new club president and thanks to Curt McKittrick, immediate past president, for his leadership.

CURRY COMBS

By: Amber Henderson, Reporter

As many 4-H’ers know, there are lots of things to prepare for the county fair. Like decorating your club booth, entering into contests, and if you are going to bring a horse to the fair, decorating its stall and entering it into the fun day and/or gymkhana.

Well, we as Curry Comb 4-H’ers also have to do all of these things. The theme for our club booth is horses around the world! In 4-H we have started by making a horse out of recyclables, then we made the earth, we also made a poster of how to care for your horse, and finally we started to get pictures of horses to put on plates and write the name of what kind of horse they are and what country they are from.

As we get closer to the time for the county fair, we also practice for the fun day and gymkhana by backing up in things, going at full speed to try and beat other people’s times, and doing all types of courses so when it comes, we’re ready. The county fair is actually fun when you get to go around all of the cones and poles and you can do the courses for real.

As you can see there are many things you need to prepare for during the county fair, but in the end it’s all worth it. Come see our 4-H club booth!

YOU STOLE MY HEART

*You stole my heart
Then you broke it
And then you gave it back to me
Shattered, empty, void
A broken raft on a sea
Of tears
Your heart when you
Come back to me
And I tell you to leave
Saying I've moved on*

TEARS

By: Ciretta J. Crudup

All the tears that fell down my cheek were from all the hurt and pain, the sorrow and deceit. Now these tears won't come down my face because there's no more pain. Now when you see tears, it's not from hurt, it's from having joy back in my life. Now when you look at me, you don't see a frown, but you do see that beautiful smile with cheeks of a rose. Since you came into my life you showed me how not to hurt, but to move on and to have fun with life.

Ciretta, an Asbury Park High School student was a participant in the creative arts workshop series conducted by Ellen Williams, 4-H Agent, at the Asbury Park High School's School Based Youth Services program (SPOT).

THANK YOU TO 4-H

Dear Ms. Williams,

There is no gauge or method of measurement to really know if the children's programs of the 4-H are having a positive impact on them or not. 4-H has so many dedicated leaders trying to involve and keep the interest of their group. But ultimately, so many people come and go, no one can monitor where these children end up or where their life will take them.

There is one child, however, that I can speak for, and that is my son, Spencer. Growing up, he was always a quiet child, who kept to himself. He spent a lot of time in his own little world buffered from the kids who picked on him and made fun of him.

When he joined Nature's Navigators, it was probably one of the hardest times in his life. He was not really accepted in social groups, he was incredibly withdrawn, and had no interest in being part of any groups of kids in his school.

Fortunately for Spencer, the kids of Nature's Navigators welcomed him with open arms. The group consisted of all sorts of kids, from different backgrounds. He was instantly part of the group and happily participated in all of the group activities he could. It was a wonderful opportunity for him to be a kid and not be judged or made fun of. He was free to be a light hearted, fun loving, carefree kid. He didn't have to be worried about fitting in or being accepted...he just was.

Spencer learned so much during his time with the 4-H. Of course he learned about animals and nature but he also learned about being a friend and having friends. His confidence level grew during these years, which we attribute, in part, to his Nature's Navigators' days.

My son has grown into a wonderful young man. He will be going to college in the fall. He is caring, kind and wonderful. He has had the honor of being accepted into the Bonner Scholarship Program at Rider University. This is a public service award in which he will do community service and he received a paycheck for his work. He will be working in Trenton with adults that cannot read, inner city children who might need a mentor, cleaning inner city parks, etc.

I believe in my heart, that his 4-H experience helped make him the man that he is growing into today. He has very fond memories of his time with 4-H and is so happy to be able to help out once in a while.

So I hope for all the children out there, who aren't the coolest kids on the block, or have the highest grades or who do not run the fastest in the school, that the 4-H will continue to grow and help those kids like my son prosper into happy and healthy young adults.

4-H does make a difference in the world...my son is living proof of it.

Thank you for the bottom of my heart,

Donna Peles

THANK YOU FROM THE MONMOUTH COUNTY 4-H ASSOCIATION

By: Meg Whitehouse, President

On behalf of the Monmouth County 4-H Association, please accept my thanks to all the 4-H'ers and their families who helped with the set-up and break-down of the 4-H tent and booth equipment, the dance floor and the food booth. On Saturday, we pulled the large items from the barn and the county helped us place them under the tents for set-up on Sunday. The Saturday and Sunday set-up went smoothly thanks to the many helping hands. It is always satisfying to see the fairgrounds come to life as the 4-H'ers, their leaders, volunteers and family members build the 4-H areas.

After a full and busy week, all the stuff under the tents must be taken down, cleaned, packed and put away for next year's fair. As we say every year, the fair is not done until we have packed all the equipment in the storage barn. That means the food booth equipment, the dance floor, the booth doors, the animal pens and cages, the lattice, the dunk tank, the panels, the fans and all the miscellaneous stuff we need to put away from the fair. Because the fair closed early on Sunday due to the storm, the break-down was postponed to Monday. Notwithstanding the inconvenience, many 4-H'ers and their families came back to dismantle and pack away their tent areas. Special thanks to the Small Animal, Livestock and Horse tent families who cleared up their areas quickly. The Todd, Clayton, Yoncak, Martin, Sotovelez, Haliskoe, Cooks, Shoemaker, LaMarca, Waldron, Pillar, Lanz, Sagui, Knapp and other horse/livestock/small animal families were out in full force, cleaning, stacking and tidying up equipment. The Yoncaks, Martins, Robin, Leigh and Troy helped stack up the dance floor and the booth tent.

This year's break-down crew did yeoman's work and still buttoned up the barn by 9:30 PM. Most sincere thanks to the barn and food booth crews which included Chris Cleary, Robin Joline, Amy Grega, Wayne Smith, Charlie Grega, Charlie and Chris Whitehouse, Ann Grega, Dr. Suzie Spreat, Gracie Spreat, Dr. Spreat, Arlene LaMarca, Gail Waldron and Marie Shoemaker.

Great job done by all! The 4-H'ers, leaders and volunteers truly make the Fair great.

THANK YOU

By: Meg Whitehouse,

Dear Sam and Erin,

Thank you so much for serving as youth superintendents for the Stars and Stripes youth show at the Horse Park of NJ. Your assistance was appreciated. Your work made the show run smoothly. The judges said that you worked well together. I would happily recommend you to any show secretary as a show superintendent.

Also, thank you to Clair McKittrick, Monmouth County Rabbit Ambassador, for her rabbit presentation during the event.

Thank you!

2008 FAIR

ONE WORLD, OUR DREAM

By: Ellen Williams, 4-H Agent

4-H'ers, families and volunteers joined together to make "One World, Our Dream" a reality at the 2008 fair. Congratulations to all 4-H'ers who demonstrated their 4-H accomplishments. You truly "Make the Best Better" by your dedication and enthusiasm. Thank you to all youth and adult volunteers for making the fair a reality. We can all be proud of the 4-H spirit evidenced by all who made the 4-H fair possible.

COURTNEY NASH, AN AMBASSADOR OF 4-H SERVICE AND SPIRIT

Courtney Nash of California came to New Jersey this summer and as part of her experience, joined in with 4-H activities. She stayed with Crysta Timmerman, 2008 Monmouth County 4-H Ambassador. I want to thank Crysta and Mr. & Mrs. Timmerman for arranging for Courtney to join in our summer programs. As you see from the article below, Courtney is an outstanding young woman whom we were very privileged to come to know. We wish her well in her future endeavors and thank her for assisting us this summer (she was a special help with fair set up). We hope she will keep in touch. There is no doubt, from her character and dedication, that she will continue to "Make the Best Better".

Working with 4-H this past summer has truly been a noteworthy experience. What brought me to New Jersey was an internship doing sound engineering but spending time as an honorary "4-H'er" worked out well too. My host family for the summer, the Timmermans, are all deeply rooted in 4-H so they opened the door for me to become a part of the festivities as well as a member. To me, 4-H at first seemed much focused on the outdoors and strictly agricultural themes and as a "city girl" from Compton/Los Angeles, planting and horses were not things that I dealt with on an everyday basis. Truth be told, sticking around long enough showed me that my perception of the program was false.

One night I was at the 4-H headquarters and the place was abuzz in preparation for the upcoming Monmouth County fair. I got the chance to walk around the facilities and speak with a few participants who were either at clogging practice, turning in entries for the art contest, or interviewing for the County Ambassador position. What attracted me the most was the art entries because I think that if I had the opportunity to partake in 4-H as a youth, that is definitely the area I would spring at. I was impressed with the abilities of the young people who placed entries as well as with 4-H for providing a place for aspiring artists and children who aspire to do anything to get out there and do. I realized that 4-H is more than just becoming agriculturally aware. Although that's important too, learning leadership, team work, the importance of a job well done, dedication to service, and building confidence for life are also vital and provided through 4-H.

I appreciate the value of service that 4-H embodies as well. Above all, that is what it all boils down to and that light that is shone upon giving back where help is needed makes 4-H different and to me a cut about a lot of youth organizations. Hearing about the Cloggers volunteering at elderly homes, seeing the groups working at booths to raise money for scholarships, and volunteering myself with 4-H and experiencing it first hand is not only memorable but inspiring. It's amazing seeing kids, teenagers and adults who truly are service oriented and aiming to make their world a better place through so many different facets.

When living in Compton, California for the last 6 years, it's not every day that you run into service oriented individuals let alone entire organizations. This ratio was in some ways bittersweet because in the absence of many service groups, there was more reason to start one and room for a large impact once that group was started. I'm not going to rant and rave, but I came up hearing a lot of "not today", "we don't have the money for that" or simply the cold shoulder when I asked why things weren't better than they were. I was elected to the office of Associated Student Body Treasurer and then chosen to be on my school Leadership Team my senior year. It was here that I became the leader of my school's first every Campus Improvement Committee. Long story short, with a lot of hard work and after what seemed to be a million phone calls, letters, presentations, more phone calls, and a lot of grunt work, a school wide recycling project was birthed and bi annual beautification days were executed.

Along with heading that committee at school, I spent hours a week volunteering as a peer counselor/mentor around school and within the community, a tutor and music instructor at the Watts/Willowbrook Boys and girls Club, and a worker at church, selling dinners for a scholarship fund. I'm working hard not to be a stranger in the world of service. Just this winter, the University of Miami offered me a full tuition scholarship for my dedication to community service and I was awarded the Bill Gates Millennium Scholarship for service, leadership, and academic achievement. A message to current and future 4-H members: nothing is impossible. Remember that through any situation; remain humble, diligent, and honest in everything because people recognize that and it is with those components that change spreads and great things happen.

PROUD OF OUR SCHOOLS • CONCERNED FOR OUR CHILDREN

August 13, 2008

4-H wishes to thank the Monmouth County Master Gardener program for their support of the horticulture program on August 4th and 8th at the Howell Summer School. Particular thanks go to Ronnie Liebowitz and Joan Lynch for creating a “hands-on learning” experience of such interest and benefit to the youth.

Dear Ms. Williams:

The students of the Howell Summer School Program would like to thank you for your generous donation of plants for our planting project. It was very informative for the students and the volunteers who came to Greenville School were most helpful. It was a great success and each student that participated was able to bring home one potted plant.

Your kindness and generosity toward the students in our program is greatly appreciated.

Sincerely,

Joy Forrest, Director
Howell Summer Program

The following two letters are from the school.

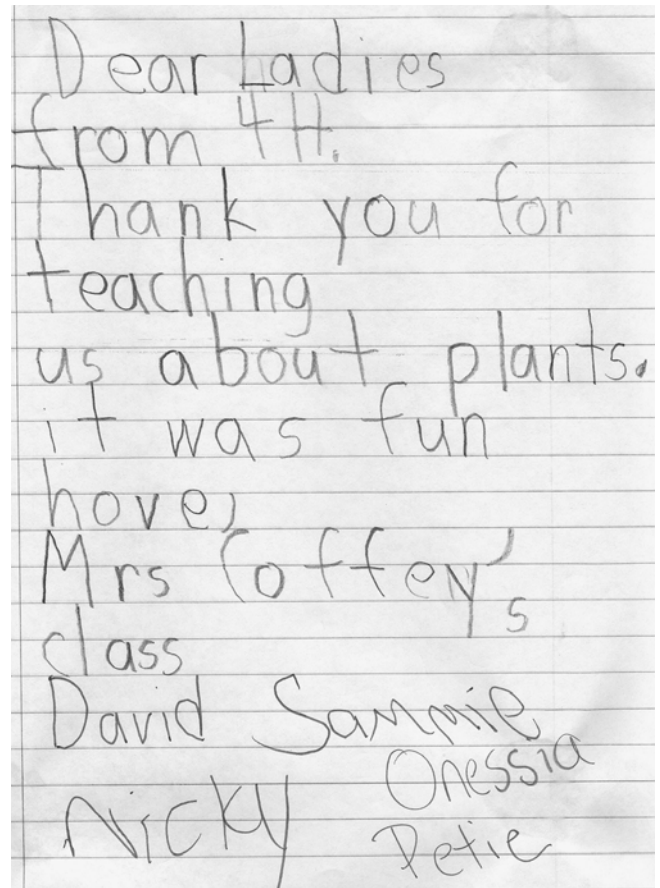

Dear Association,

I just wanted to thank you for your generous sponsorship for the Citizenship Washington Focus. This has been an extraordinary trip and I have been so honored to attend. Without your help, I would have not been able to come, so I again thank you so much for the scholarship.

Sincerely,
Amelia Valente

Citizenship Washington Focus is a week-long 4-H citizenship program for youth ages 14-19. These young people come from across the nation to learn about citizenship and leadership in the living classroom of Washington, D.C.

Stick to Your List– Grocery stores are designed to entice you to buy more with irresistible marketing. By sticking to a list, you will only purchase what you need and “get in and get out” of the store quickly.

Do Not Shop on an Empty Stomach– If you go to a supermarket hungry, you will most likely purchase more food than you need, including expensive items as well.

Leave Young Kids at Home, if Possible– Young children want all of the products that are marketed to them and conveniently placed at their “eye” level. Avoid potential in-store battles and try to shop alone.

Break Yourself of “Brand Habits”- Generic or store brands are generally better buys. Basic commodities such as sugar, flour, tomato sauce, and paper towels are often indistinguishable when the label is removed. Some store brands are different from their national-brand equivalents, however, so buy small amounts first to test quality and flavor.

Go Easy On Highly Processed Foods in Expensive Packaging– Buy the basics and add your own sugar, spices, condiments, and sauces. You’ll save 50 percent or more, and feel much more creative. The closer a food is to its natural state, the less it tends to cost.

Don’t Be Deceived by Packaging– Check the per-unit cost of food products; sometimes small sizes are more economical than jumbo packs.

Beware of End Caps– Food items on aisle “end caps” are often attractively displayed to entice shoppers to make additional purchases; these displays are not always a shopper’s bargain.

Look Up, Look Down– Items on the upper and lower shelves are often cheaper. Big brands often pay big bucks for eye-level shelf space.

Shop “Off-Hours”- Whizzing through supermarket checkouts in the early mornings or late evenings may give you time to “shop the specials” at more than one store per week.

Don’t Do All Your Shopping at the Supermarket– Toiletries, for instance, are usually cheaper at discount stores. A little comparison shopping could save you a lot of money.

Cook Once, Eat Twice– Plan meals with recipes that can be doubled easily. Serve one and label and freeze the other for a later date. Often it doesn’t cost much more to make a double recipe.

Buy Fruits and Vegetables in Season– Stock up when items are cheap. Check out local farmer’s markets.

Bring Lunches and Snacks to Work– Compared to eating out, brown-bagging can save food dollars.

Consider Eating Less Meat– Make at least one or two meatless meals each week.

Cruise Through Your Fridge Daily– Check foods on hand to plan to use them before they go bad.

Invest in a Good Inexpensive Cookbook– With some new recipes, you can be more creative with the groceries you bring home. Look for healthy recipes that you can prepare in a short amount of time.

Save and Make Use of Leftovers– Serve for breakfast the next day or use for kids’ lunches or your own.

Consider Gas Costs- Don’t drive many miles out of the way to a store to save a few more pennies.

Watch “Open or Use By” Dates– Look for dates marked on perishable foods to avoid buying outdated products. Also be sure to use these products at home in time to avoid waste.

Purchase Only What You Will Use– Eat everything that you buy to avoid food waste.

Watch the Cash Register– Checkout errors can be costly. Use supermarket discount cards to save.

Stock Up on “Real” Bargains and Non-Perishable Foods– For example, buy canned goods on sale.

Avoid Non-Nutritious Foods– This includes “junk” food snacks, sugary foods, soft drinks, etc.

Find Your Green Thumb– Consider growing some of your own vegetables, fruits, and herbs.

Avoid Food Shopping at Convenience Stores– They are generally more expensive than supermarkets.

Don’t Pay Interest on Food Bought on Credit Cards– This only increases the cost of food even more.

SUMMER INTERN

By: Pam Brown

My experience at the 4-H office this summer was nice. I helped set up for the fair in many different ways from counting ribbons to hanging the 4-H projects at the fair. I feel that as this year's summer intern I've learned a lot. I even taught two different sessions at the Youth Detention Center of Monmouth County. One of my lessons was on drug awareness, the second on stress. When I first started this job I thought 4-H was about diet and exercising, fruits and vegetables, but then I realized this program is about helping the youth in their communities. All in all 4-H is a wonderful program that everyone should experience.

SUMMER VOLUNTEER

By: Sarah R. Sakowski

Volunteering at the 4-H office has been fun over the summer. Not only does it give me something to do, but it enabled me to get ready for my potential job that I may be taking at Brookdale. It was also a pleasure to meet Jackie and Pam, two interns who worked at the office as well. The type of work that I did at the 4-H office would be odds and ends, plan different summer activities, and visit different places around the county. I would advise anybody who wants a work related experience to inquire about volunteering at the 4-H office.

I was also able to organize two separate workshops for two different camps. One camp is being held at Turkey Swamp Park, and the other is here at the 4-H office. At the Turkey Swamp 4-H Arts Camp, I am teaching a workshop on healthy eating, and then the campers can prepare a dessert after they eat their dinner. The camp that I am teaching here at the 4-H office is just about the same workshop, but the campers will be making a healthy snack. I hope that both will be a great success!

4-H Programs Help Group Home Residents Develop New Skills and Interests

Volume 16, Issue 3 - Summer 2008

Group Home graduates Tiana (left) and LaTonya learned how to care for and ride horses through the Monmouth County 4-H program.

"I felt like I really wanted to get to know them better," declared Ellen Williams, the 4-H Agent from Monmouth County, about the residents of Collier Group Home. For the past year, Ellen has been working with the Group Home girls on several different projects, including yoga, journaling, and hands-on learning with horses on a monthly basis.

The horse training program is a 4-H Club held at Free Spirit Farm in Freehold on the second Saturday of each month. In addition to individual riding lessons, the girls have learned about the nature of horses, how to tie a quick-release knot, and how to groom, saddle and bridle a horse. "I liked it," said Group Home graduate Samantha. "We learned how to take care of an injured foot, and how to keep the horse comfortable." Ellen also noted the therapeutic benefits of the program. "There's something really fascinating about connecting youth with animals. It helps build trust since they receive unconditional support [from the horses]... and builds responsibility and socialization by working as a team." The riding lessons, understandably the girls' favorite part, go beyond just having fun. "It's great to see them going around the ring with such pride on their faces and taking safe risks," recalls Ellen. "We're building self-esteem, and I'm glad to be involved!"

Ellen and other 4-H volunteers have also conducted activities at the Group Home including yoga, art, role-playing and journaling. Samantha recognized how helpful the role-playing sessions are for the group dynamic. "It gets [the residents] together and to communicate better. It teaches you to work together, and definitely made things easier." Ellen especially enjoyed doing journaling with the girls, which was eye-opening for her personally. Having taught English before working with the 4-H

Club, "I was very impressed with the level of writing and their support of one another." Ellen noted that the content of the girls' poetry and journals was very intense, often with themes of survival and resiliency. "I was speechless," said Ellen, "and just moved by the raw talent and the depth of the pain they've been through. This was a teaching experience I will never forget."

The other Collier programs have benefited from Ellen's enthusiasm for our mission as well. Last summer, she taught money management, goal-setting, and business design to the at-risk teens in our JET (Job Experience and Training) program. "Life skill development is a set part of our county structure," said Ellen, "and I am hopeful that we can expand our programs with Collier."

Collier Services shares the life skill development philosophy of 4-H. Thank you to 4-H club leaders Lisa, Roseann and Ken Vaccaro of the Horsin' Around 4-H horse club at Free Spirit Farm, Freehold Township. The educational experiences they have provided to Collier Group Home residents have been significant. 4-H provides various programs to Collier Services. For example, this summer Kelly Valenti, 4-H Program Assistant offered Character Counts at JET Camp. Ellen Williams will continue to offer life skill development programs fostering self esteem and goal setting.

Rabbit Ambassador Update

By: Clair McKittrick, Rabbit Ambassador

It has been a busy summer for this 4-Her. There are always so many things to do. The Stars and Stripes Show was a great way to start off the summer. The weather was perfect (no rain!) and there were so many things to see and do. Next was the Monmouth County Fair, the Small Animal Tent had over 80 registered animals. Next was the Mercer County Fair at the Howell Living History Farm, held at the end of July. It was really an honor to talk to the Secretary of Agriculture Charles Kuperus and explain how the RAP project works. Then there was a week at 4-H camp with swimming, eating and meeting lots of new friends. Lastly was a visit to the Mercer County 4-H Fair to see Judge Bob and other 4-H friends. Hope everyone had a wonderful summer with plenty Jersey Fresh produce. Hope to see everyone at the State Small Animal Show Sept. 13. There will be an info. booth for the Rabbit Ambassador Program, so stop by to see us.

MOSQUITOES

By: Alex Kubiak, Garden Ambassador

Mosquitoes are quite a problem in late summer. Mosquitoes like to breed in wet still areas. If you have standing water around your house here are some things you can do to reduce the mosquito population.

1. Dispose of unwanted tin cans and tires.
2. Clean clogged roof gutters and drain flat roofs.
3. Flush sump-pump pits weekly.
4. Stock ornamental pools with fish.
5. Change water in birdbaths, fountains, and troughs twice a week.
6. Clean and chlorinate swimming pools; when not regularly used, they should be emptied.
7. Turn over unused wading pools and other containers that tend to collect rainwater.
8. Cover containers tightly with window screen or plastic when storing rainwater for garden use during drought periods.

By doing these things you will help reduce the mosquito population and prevent them from spreading disease.

Anthony DiPalma of Manasquan Elementary School did his school presentation on the 4-H Youth Development Program. Anthony did internet research on 4-H and interviewed Ellen Williams, 4-H Agent. Following is a copy of the report Anthony did on 4-H.

NEW JERSEY 4-H

By: Anthony DiPalma

From all the information I gathered it says that the 4-H clubs followed the corn clubs for boys and the canning club for girls. It was organized in the 1900's by public school educators so that students' learning experience would broaden. In 1914 the 4-H officially became a part of Cooperative Extension Service, established by the U.S. Congress. The "4-H Clubs" appeared in federal documents in 1918 for the first time. The American idea of 4-H has spread around the world and has adapted to the changing needs and interests of kids.

The 4-H is a youth program that is informal and educational. Rutgers Cooperative Extension, which is the off-campus division of the New Jersey Agricultural Experiment station for Rutgers University, runs the NJ 4-H as their youth developmental program. The 4-H says that their mission is to teach kids to learn-by-doing. They say it helps kids to develop the attitudes, skills and knowledge that they will definitely need to be caring, competent, and contributing citizens that we need for a better world.

I always thought that you could only be part of 4-H if you lived on a farm and had animals. But that is not true. The 4-H does have a lot of programs that have to do with farm animals, but they also have programs for kids living in cities and towns. Some of these programs are bicycle care and safety, model rocketry, aerospace and go-carting.

The 4-H says that their clubs are a part of their program that are the foundation of the 4-H. If you have five or more kids that have one or more adults that can volunteer to guide them, then that can be a club. A club can be just a small group of kids, for example our class, or a large group of kids from all over the country. A club will usually do one or more projects like maybe woodworking, food and nutrition, training dogs for seeing eye, or maybe gardening or karate. The clubs elect officers and have business meetings. They work together and do service activities for their community. They meet new friends and, best of all, they have fun.

You have to be at least in 4th grade to join a 4-H club, and you can stay part of it till one year after you graduate high school. When you become a member, you can enroll in a lot of different 4-H projects. You can exhibit any work that you complete and they will be judged and could win awards. You don't have to pay anything to join and you are not required to wear a uniform. Most everything you do with 4-H is free or really inexpensive. There is a 4-H prep club that is for grades 1-3. It gives you a sample of what you can do in the real 4-H program.

I always wondered what the 4-H emblem meant and I found out that the green leaf clover has 4-H's on it that stand for Head, Heart, Hands and Health. And it was patented in 1924. The 4-H motto is, "To Make the Best Better" and its slogan is, "Learn by doing". The 4-H also has a pledge, "I pledge my Head to clearer thinking, my Heart to greater loyalty, my Hands to larger service, and my Health to better living, for my club, my community, my country, and my world."

The 4-H can be found in every county in our state. There are hundreds of clubs that have thousands of members. And 4-H through school enrichment, camping and short-term programs have even thousands more members. The 4-H is actually located all over the world with about 10 million young people enrolled.

I was first interested in doing my report on New Jersey 4-H because my family adopted a seeing eye dog from Morristown Seeing Eye. We were told by Morristown Seeing Eye that our dog, Cannon, had been trained by a 4-H member and was entered in the annual 4-H dog show. He won first prize for best dog in show. I really liked learning about the different 4-H clubs and how I could help my community and our world. I think I probably will join my local 4-H.

IN CELEBRATION AND IN MEMORY OF LEW AUMACK

By: Ann and Laura del Campo

Time is surreptitious in how the years sneak up on you! Although you young folks in the 4-H are just beginning your lives by looking forward, many of those supporting your efforts have many years to look back upon. This note is being crafted in memory of one of the key people who have brought great joy to a family who participated with the 4-H Equestrian Clubs in Monmouth County several years ago.

The Monmouth County 4-H club, Knight Riders, coached by Stella Almeida over a decade ago, was an inspiration for my daughter, Laura, to learn how to become a responsible young adult. Now at age 22, she too, looks back. Laura remembers all the activities she participated with the 4-H club and how Lew Aumack, who has recently passed away, provided new riding opportunities.

We met Lew Aumack (Robert Lew Aumack, Sr), about thirteen years ago. We had two horses, one of them a 4-H Grand Champion, "Ollie", and "Dreamer" a foal and 4-H project. We moved into a farm where Lew had several stalls for boarding. Lew opened the door for many great experiences we had over the next couple of years.

Lew had a young pony, "Sadie" who was trained to give birthday party rides. Sadie, however, was not trained under saddle to jump nor ride without leading. With Lew's tutelage and commitment, Sadie not only learned not to buck Laura off, but she learned how to jump and went to a couple of horse shows where she placed in ribbons. In addition to that, Sadie loved to eat hot dogs and soda at these events. Looking back, I think the horse show food vendors were the main reason Sadie got on the trailer to go to these shows. She was a smart pony.

Lew also allowed Laura and I to ride at Allaire State Park with our horse Ollie, and Sadie. I remember falling off Ollie when he decided to go a different direction. Laura was riding Sadie and when I fell she said, "Don't worry Mom, I'll get him," as she raced after him. She disappeared with me standing in the forest alone! Needless to say, she came back with Ollie in lead, and 12 other horses. She found Ollie with about 12 people on a pack trail enjoying the trails of Allaire.

I can remember Lew helping me learn how to drive a tractor when we left his place and built our own horse farm. We had wall-to-wall briar bushes in all open spaces and I was petrified of their cat claws (they are called cat briars). Thanks to Lew, he showed me how to manage the brush hog. During this time, he went into one of the holes in the field where perk testing had been done and the holes left open and covered by briars. If it had been me on the tractor I would have been paralyzed...with fear! Lew used the bucket on the tractor and showed me how to safely move out of the ditch.

Lew had a previous life driving trucks but we never knew much of that. What he shared with us was his continuous love of horses and his eagerness to participate in engaging kids with horses. He helped everyone in the community. As of last week, Lew has left our world and we certainly hope he comes back, as someone close to us in spirit. Lew will always hold a very special place in our hearts.

To all you young 4-H'ers, we wish you have this special kind of relationship with people you meet working with horses or your favorite activity. Enjoy the 4-H. A small gift is being made to the Knight Riders in memory and celebration of Lew Aumack's dedication and inspiration.

Independent Project:
Oral History Project: Linking Youths with Elders
Adam Black, 4-H Independent Project 4-H'er

This oral history project is an awesome way to link senior citizens with teens while learning a little bit about each other. The project also provides an excellent opportunity for seniors and teens to dispel the many stereotypes about both groups in society that are quite common. For instance, many teens view senior citizens as old and senile who contribute very little to society, while many seniors view teens as nuisances who drink, do drugs, and listen to loud music. Both of these assumptions however, are obviously not true when talking about seniors and teens as a whole. By having teens connect with their elders by learning about their pasts, teens will be able to form a stronger relationship with the elder generation.

NATIONAL 4-H WEEK October 5-11, 2008

National 4-H Week is set for October 5-11, 2008. This year's theme will be "Keeping it Green." With 4-H's connection to environmental efforts, youth participating in environmental science, and 4-H's new partnership with Nickelodeon's The Big Green Help, "Keeping it Green" shows how 4-H is bridging old ideas with new to teach youth environmental stewardship and connecting youth to science-related issues. The green theme also can showcase 4-H beyond the environmental focus as 4-H's green brand is a direct connection to the organization as a whole.

4-H National Youth Science Day is set to be held on Wednesday, October 8th during National 4-H Week. This is the first-ever day of its kind to encourage 4-H friends, families, community partners, and other youth organizations to join together to show how science can be fun. One of the partners for this day is Nickelodeon. An experiment is being created for youth to do in their communities beginning on October 8th. The experiment will be environmental in nature, easy to do, cheap to implement and fun for the youth.
